PAUL SIMON BIRTHDAY BONANZA

UP TO HALF PRICE PLUS 20% off selected items

GOT IT ALL WRAPPED UP

Top UK home furnishings specialist celebrates 22nd Birthday by gifting customers with biggest double discount.

Celebrations are in order this weekend for the start of the biggest nationwide Birthday Bonanza ever at Paul Simon, one of the UK's largest home furnishing retailers, having reached their 22nd anniversary.

With difficult economic conditions across Britain for many years, reaching this landmark birthday reflects Paul Simon's continued success which has been achieved by offering customers' exceptional quality and service, along with ever increasing choice and ever decreasing prices.

Managing Director, Paul Ludwin explains: "Twenty two years is a long time in retail yet we've remained at the top of our game by applying initiatives including redesigning our stores to facilitate an exciting expansion of new product ranges. For more than two decades we have been the destination store for curtains and blinds, but in the last few years we have extended our departments and become a comprehensive home furnishing specialist. All of our stores have retained an extensive range of curtains and blinds but most of them now have bed departments along with sofas, chairs and dining furniture departments. Plus, many stores even have carpet departments in them, so customers can now buy everything they need to furnish any room in their home with perfect coordination using the very latest products, colours, styles and designs. We've really got it all wrapped up under one roof!"

Paul added: "This Bonanza is not just a celebration of our birthday, it's also a chance for us to give some amazing savings, including an extra 20% off already reduced prices on many items plus 33% off our 14 day express made to measure curtains, which is our biggest ever discount. It's our way of saying thank you to our loyal customers who have given their support over the past twenty two years. We wouldn't have made it without them."

Time runs out for advice service as council pulls plug

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

HARLOW'S Welfare Rights & Advice Service has been forced to close its doors to new clients after Harlow Council terminated its contract with the organisation.

Notices were put up in the windows of the Advice Centre in East Gate on Friday afternoon informing the public of the shut-down, but staff remain in the building and were this week continuing their fight to save the service.

They are also working on the hundreds of cases that still need to be resolved, although they are struggling to contact clients as the council has also cut the telephone lines as part of its withdrawal.

As the Star reported last week, the authority was unwilling to give the service more time to pay off debts accrued due to what HWRA described as a "temporary cashflow problem".

The trustees had hoped to arrange a repayment plan through which two-thirds of a salaries reimbursement owing would have been paid by October 15 and the remainder in December.

But the council was unwilling to accept the arrangement and the cabinet ruled that the contract must be terminated, effectively pulling the plug on the service's core funding and leaving the organisation financially insolvent.

Les Coben, acting chairman of the trustees, said: "All payments for support services are up to date, but the council has cut off the telephone system. This means staff are having to use their personal mobile phones for work-related matters, which is totally unacceptable."

"Several members of staff have worked for the benefit of Harlow for nearly 30 years. They are being treated with contempt."

CLOSED: Harlow Advice Centre in East Gate

"As we have been all along, the trustees wish only to work with Harlow Council to reach an agreement which will be of benefit to the people of Harlow."

Mr Coben said that during its 40-year history HWRA has provided many thousands of residents with legal and financial advice every year – 10,000 in the last year alone. "We live in tough times with an ever-increasing number of people in desperate need of help," he added.

But council leader Mark Wilkinson insisted the authority had "explored every avenue" to keep HWRA up and running and had been left with no option but to terminate its contract with the service.

"We've tried really hard as a Labour administration to resolve this issue," he said. "HWRA have owed the council money for many months; this problem has been ongoing for longer than we have been running the council."

"We give the service a grant of £120,000 a year and although I'm not at liberty to divulge exactly how much they currently owe us, the figure exceeds that amount."

"We have even explored the possibility of increasing their grant, but because the contract originally went out to tender before being agreed we cannot legally change the detail halfway through."

"It is also against the law for any local authority to have dealings with an organisation it believes to be financially insolvent, as we believe the case to be with HWRA."

"We have sought independent legal advice on the subject and that is the information we have been given."

He added: "We're looking at a range of options at the moment in terms of providing a service to replace HWRA. We realise that they provide a specialist service and we are currently exploring ways to ensure residents can still get expert help and advice."

The decision to terminate the contract has caused a rift within the ranks of the Harlow Labour Party, with several councillors understood to be extremely unhappy with the decision and the role council officers played in its determination.

Stan Newens, former Labour MP for Harlow, told the Star he was bitterly disappointed with his party's actions.

"I was heavily involved with setting this flagship service up more than 40 years ago and to see it now being forced to close under a Labour administration is very upsetting indeed," he said.

"I fully appreciate the council is under tremendous financial pressure from the Government, but it seems clear to me that there were ways and means of keeping this vital service open that have not been properly explored."

"At a time when the Government's welfare reforms are just beginning to kick in, the service is going to be needed more than ever before. I'm bitterly disappointed with this decision and will be campaigning strongly to have it reversed."

Girl's screams scare off attacker

POLICE investigating an assault on a teenage girl in Harlow are appealing for help to catch her attacker. The 14-year-old victim was walking along Howard Way at 8.30pm last Wednesday when she was grabbed from behind by a man.

He pushed her against the gates of an electricity sub-station but was forced to flee after the girl managed to strike him with her elbow and scream for help.

He ran off in the direction of Altham Grove. The victim did not require medical treatment.

Investigating officer PC Emma Heighton said: "Although the attack was not of a sexual nature, we believe there was motive behind it."

"We need to hear from anyone who was in the area at the time. It is a secluded area and our initial search resulted in nobody being found nearby. The nearest houses are on Altham Grove."

The attacker is white and was wearing a dark long-sleeved top, dark gloves, a dark beanie hat and light-blue jeans.

PC Heighton added: "We would also once again remind girls and women about taking security measures when walking alone in the dark."

Anyone with information about the assault should contact Harlow police on 101.

Tragedy at Barn Mead

Reports by Chris Moss, Vicky Lane

Father's farewell to the a house fire that united

PROCESSION: The cortege arrives at Harlow Islamic Centre in Paringdon Road for the funeral service, below

IT was a time for reflection, a time for a community to unite in mourning.

And for the husband and father who had lost his whole family in last Monday's tragic house fire, it was a time to say goodbye.

Supported by members of his extended family and hundreds of mourners, Dr Abdul Shakoor bravely led a dignified funeral procession through the streets of Harlow yesterday afternoon before his wife and five children were laid to rest at Parndon Wood Cemetery.

Speaking at a prayers session held at Harlow Islamic Centre after the burials, he said: "Into this shocking and heartbreaking tragedy come myself, immediate family members and close friends. Within such a short medium of time I have lost everything in my life.

"It will not have been possible for me in this time to face this reality without getting firstly guidance from the holy book of Quran."

Earlier, the cortege had arrived at Harlow Islamic Centre earlier in the day from east London, where the bodies of wife and mother Sabah Usmani, daughters Hira and Maheen and sons Sohaib, Muneeb and Rayyan had been washed – an important Muslim ritual bestowing respect upon the dead – in preparation for their burial.

The six coffins were then taken into the faith centre in Paringdon Road where the Shakoor family regularly used to pray as a family. They were placed at the sides of the main hall as mourners began to filter in to pay their respects.

Three had wreaths bearing pink roses and white lilies, while the remaining three were adorned with blue and white flowers.

During the service, which was attended by more than 200 people, the coffins were then brought to the front of the hall before prayers were offered for the tragic victims of the fire.

Those in attendance included members of Dr Shakoor's family – many of whom had flown in from Pakistan – as well as teachers and pupils from Abbotswold School and Stewards Academy and members of the emergency services who had battled in vain to save the lives of Dr Usmani and her children.

Following the service, the coffins were then loaded back into six hearses before being driven at walking pace along Paringdon Road and up Parndon Wood Lane.

The cortege was followed by a 400-strong procession made up of the family's friends, neighbours, relatives, local dignitaries, members of the emergency services and other residents, many of whom had never met the Shakoor.

Others lined the streets to pay their respects as the procession headed towards Parndon

Wood Cemetery, where the bodies of the six victims of the tragedy were finally laid to rest during a private family ceremony.

Mourners later headed back to Harlow Islamic Centre for further prayers.

Speaking to the Star after the funeral service, family relative Abu Ali said sole survivor Dr Shakoor, who suffered minor burns and severe smoke inhalation as he battled to save his family from the inferno, would take "great solace" from the community's response to the tragedy.

"He is a shell of the man he was before - you can never move on from these things, you just have to go on.

"However, I think he will draw a lot of solace and comfort from the amount of people that came out today to support him.

"I know what has brought him and the family a lot of comfort is the support they have received from the police and staff at the hospital, which has been exemplary.

"Something as tragic as this really resonates around the community and in this hard time it is heartening to see them come forward and offer support.

"I think now [his wife and children] are with God we can all begin to progress and move on."

Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who helped arrange visas for members of the Shakoor family wanting to fly to the UK to attend yesterday's service, described the funeral as "one of the most moving experiences" of his life.

"It was an incredibly special service," he told the Star. "I thank the Islamic Centre for bringing the entire community together and welcoming people of all faiths.

"The fact that so many people turned out today to pay their respects shows the strength of support for Dr Shakoor at this incredibly difficult time - seeing residents, many of whom were complete strangers, lining the streets just made you want to weep."

Tragedy at Barn Mead

Reports by Chris Moss, Vicky Lane Photos by Steve Weemes, Vikki Lince

Police awaiting full forensic test results

MORE than a week after the fatal house fire in Barn Mead, police are struggling to establish the exact cause of the blaze.

Detectives have yet to rule out arson but to date no traces of fuel or any other accelerant have been found at the scene.

It is believed the fire started in the lounge at the rear of the end-of-terrace property.

But because of the sheer ferocity of the inferno – which is understood to have reached temperatures of up to 1,000 degrees – it is feared that potentially vital clues could have been destroyed.

An Essex Police spokesman told the Star yesterday (Wednesday) the full results of forensics work were expected today.

“Our enquiries, involving in excess of 50 officers and specialist staff, are continuing and it is expected that the full results of forensics work to establish the cause of the fire will be submitted to Essex Police on Thursday,” he said.

“However, because of the importance of this investigation these results will be given to a second independent forensic expert to formally validate the findings.

“It is important given the nature of the incident that independent experts scrutinise our initial findings.

“We will not be making any other announcements about the forensics results until the independent experts have completed their work.”

On Thursday evening police held a ‘street briefing’ with Barn Mead residents outside a mobile policing unit set up in the neighbourhood last week to assist the investigation.

Addressing the group, Harlow District Commander Chief Inspector Justin Smith stressed that investigating officers were pursuing a number of lines of inquiry.

“The whole family were well respected and integral community members

with no history of racial aggravation.

“It is a lead we are no longer pursuing but that doesn't mean we have closed our minds to it. We've been down that road and it hasn't taken us anywhere yet.

“There was also one rumour circulating linking the incident with a previous tenant. I can confirm we have made contact with him, we know who he is and he has been very open with us about the situation.

“He is a very visible person in the community and believes if people wanted to find him or make contact they would have. It is an inquiry we are following up but again would urge people not to run away with it.”

He said that detectives were “working hard” to establish a potential link between the house blaze and a fire-damaged car discovered near the scene

“By the time emergency services arrived the fire was intense, which implies it had been burning for a while,” he said.

“The car wasn't burnt out, however. We now need to understand the timings, and how long the car had been alight compared to how long the house had been alight. That is a key point.”

Chief Inspector Smith added that police were working around the clock to determine what happened and renewed his appeal for anyone with any information to come forward.

“A lot of witnesses have come forward and from their statements we know there were people on the scene around the time of the fire.

“However, some of those people have yet to be identified and we are urging them to get in touch. We are trying to develop a full picture of what happened here prior to the event up until the emergency service arrived.

“If you were here half-an-hour before, an hour before, or any time that evening then we need to know as it could be vital to the investigation.”

Anyone with information in connection with the fire is urged to contact detectives at Harlow's Major Investigation Team on 101, email them on SCDappeals@essex.pnn.police.uk or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

We're here to give all the support we can HARLOW'S close-knit community united in grief this week as tributes were paid to the victims of the Barn Mead blaze.

More than 200 people packed into Harlow Islamic Centre on Friday afternoon to pay their respects to Dr Sabah Usmani (44) and her children Hira (12), Sohaib (11), Muneeb (9), Rayyan (6) and Maheen (3), all of whom lost their lives following the fire.

Residents of all faiths and backgrounds attended the service at the faith centre off Paringdon Road where the Shakoors prayed regularly as a family.

They were joined by representatives from the police, health and fire authorities and local dignitaries including Harlow MP Robert Halfon and Harlow Council chairwoman Maggie Hulcoop.

Speaking after the hour-long service, Mr Halfon said he had been encouraged by the overwhelming community response to the tragedy.

“This service touched me as it would touch any person of whatever religion or background and it has bought the community together,” he said. “It was nice to see neighbours and such incredible support.

“If Harlow was not like this, it would be a much, much harder situation.” Harlow Islamic Centre chairman Ajab Hussain said he hoped Dr Shakoors could take strength from the way the Harlow community had pulled together in the wake of the fire.

“Just looking around at the number of people who, irrespective of their religious beliefs or background, attended the service shows you the level of support being offered to Dr Shakoors at this most difficult time,” he told the Star.

“By seeking refuge in his faith I hope he can begin to come to terms with this terrible tragedy. He knows that Harlow's Muslim community, and indeed the town as a whole, are here to give him all the support they possibly can.”

Hundreds of floral tributes, cards and soft toys now line the street near the scene of the fire, while books of condolence opened by Harlow Council, Princess Alexandra Hospital and Harlow Islamic Centre have been filled with messages of support from local residents.

Council leader Mark Wilkinson said: “We have received an overwhelming response to our book of condolence, with people leaving such heartfelt messages to those who lost their lives so tragically,” he said.

The council's book of condolence will close at noon tomorrow (Friday).

Teams from the Harlow & District Football League also held a minute's silence prior to kick-off at all games on Sunday as a mark of respect for the Shakoors family. Among them was the Princess Alexandra Hospital team, a side which featured several of Dr Shakoors' work colleagues.

The hospital has also arranged an interfaith service for staff, which is scheduled to start at 1pm today (Thursday) at the social club in Hamstel Road.

Dr Shakoors is expected to attend and give a short address to members of the congregation.

Staff rowathon pulls in the pounds for charity

SUPERMARKET staff row, row, rowed their way towards a healthy £900 by taking part in a fundraising endurance challenge.

Teams of employees at the Tesco store in Edinburgh Way, Harlow, took it in turns to row more than 48 miles over two days to raise cash for Cancer Research UK as part of the Stand Up To Cancer campaign sponsored by the retail giant.

Kay Kazim, the store's charity champion, said staff had worked hard to do a "really good job".

"Most participated in the rowathon at one point and did really well to cover such a large distance and raise so much money," she said. "Everyone was really pleased with themselves."

She added: "We'd like to also say a big thank-you to all our generous customers and Body Active in Sawbridgeworth who kindly lent us the rowing machine free of charge. Without them the event wouldn't have been the success it was."

A NOISY neighbour has paid a high price for his love of music after being ordered by magistrates to pay almost £1,200 for playing his favourite tunes too loudly.

Ravi Sharma (41), of Five Acres, Harlow, was fined £500 after breaching an earlier court ruling ordering him to turn down the volume.

He was also ordered to foot a legal bill of £689 at the hearing at Chelmsford Magistrates Court last Wednesday.

Magistrates were told it was Sharma's second offence. In May last year he was fined £100 and ordered to pay £300 in costs for the nuisance he was causing his neighbours.

Dimple Roopchand, prosecuting for Harlow Council, told the court Sharma was first served with a notice ordering him to keep the noise to acceptable levels on December 15, 2010.

The order banned him from playing amplified music above a reasonable volume and stipulated that music must not be audible from neighbouring flats, particularly between the hours of 11pm and 7am.

But on June 19 this year Harlow Council's environmental health emergency call centre received a complaint from one of Sharma's neighbours at 8.58pm. An officer was sent to the complainant's flat and was able to hear the music while sitting in the living room.

Among the songs he heard were Mac the Knife by Frank Sinatra, Streets of London by Ralph McTell, Baker Street by Gerry Rafferty and Take It Easy by The Eagles.

Ms Roopchand told the court: "The volume was clearly audible over the complainant's television. The officer went into the communal hallway and confirmed it was coming from Sharma's property."

She added: "The officer left at 10.21pm and the music was still playing. It was unreasonable and it was a statutory nuisance and a clear breach of the notice."

Sharma, who was not in court and had not entered a plea, was found guilty in his absence.

Jon Clempner, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for environment, said after the hearing: "Our residents are entitled to enjoy their homes in peace and quiet. The council will act to protect that right."

Fun nights 'are no excuse for anti-social behaviour'

POLICE are relaunching their 'Bang Out of Order' campaign to stamp out anti-social behaviour at Hallowe'en and on Bonfire Night.

The aim is to encourage youngsters to have fun without causing a nuisance, persuade shopkeepers to restrict their sales of flour and eggs during the period and warn of the penalties for throwing or setting off fireworks in public.

Police officers and representatives of the fire service have been visiting schools and will be offering shoppers advice in Harlow town centre from 11am-3pm on Saturday and Sunday.

Inspector Anna Granger said: "The Safer Harlow Partnership will be working together to ensure that our residents enjoy Hallowe'en and Bonfire Night without the disturbance of anti-social behaviour."

"Young people should also take care if they decide to go trick or treating. For everyone else, please be tolerant of young people but remember you do not have to accept bad behaviour."

"I would urge you to call the police if you are concerned at all throughout the evening."

Team complete trek along River Thames

By VICKY LANE

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TWENTY-seven hours of non-stop walking paid off for a group of hardy Harlow residents who have raised more than £7,000 for good causes.

Mike Beatty, who set up the Nothing & Everything campaign, was joined by his team of latest recruits on the Thames Path Challenge which requires those taking part to complete a 100km walk along the banks of the River Thames within 24 hours.

Although some of the members just failed to make the target time, Mike said the most important thing was that all but one made it to the finish line.

"We ended up splitting off into three different paced groups with the quickest finishing in 21 hours," said Mike, of Challinor, Harlow.

"After two days of solid rain we were extremely lucky to have really good weather on the days and night we took on the challenge, but it was still extremely tough. The sleep deprivation on top of sore feet really gets to you by the end.

"My group had to take their shoes off for the last 15km but through sheer determination we made it to the finish line. It was very emotional and the whole group did a fantastic job."

The money raised by the group will now be split between three charities – Edukid, which supports vulnerable children in Africa and Asia; the Amy Wallace Foundation Trust, supporting terminally ill children and the Motor Neurone Disease Association.

It adds to the total of more £60,000 which has raised for charitable causes through the Nothing & Everything campaign, which aims to raise £100,000 within five years through group endurance events.

"With two years to go we are on target at the moment and already thinking about our next big challenge," said Mike. "If the Thames Path Challenge confirmed anything it was that these things really are mainly about mental strength.

"You have to be reasonably fit, but essentially it is about visualising your goal and telling yourself you can reach it. As the whole group found out, it is then the most incredible feeling when you finally do."

Organisers of the Nothing & Everything campaign are always looking for more people to join up with their own challenges. For more information, visit the website at www.nothingandeverything.co.uk.

Teenager tackles pilgrimage walk

BLISTERS and high temperatures will not stop a 15-year-old girl from walking 750km across rural Spain to raise money for skin cancer research.

Free Vreman, originally from Australia but now living in Roydon, decided to take on the Camino de Santiago pilgrimage walk with her father Eric after her grandfather, Alan Robertson, was diagnosed with the condition.

The pair, who expect to take 40 days to complete the challenge, are hoping to raise just over £2,500 for the Melanoma Institute Australia. Her grandfather still lives in the country.

Free's mother, Chaise Robertson, said that although the cancer had now been removed, her father had been left with severe scarring.

"It was scary and hard for us all to be so far away whilst Dad was undergoing treatment but we all kept positive," she said. "It was the extra push Free needed to want to do her walk."

Following a route across the Pyrenees, Eric and Free started the walk at St Jean Pied de Port in France on October 10 and hope to finish in the city of Santiago de Compestelain early next month.

"Free has been walking 25km a day taking five to seven hours to complete," added Chaise. "Apart from a few painful blisters she is coping well."

"Although she didn't conduct any particular training, she is a qualified Zumba instructor so fortunately has a high level of fitness from that."

Can you help to sell charity cards?

ANOTHER appeal to people who are able to spare a couple of hours to help sell charity cards in the build up to Christmas has gone out.

Cards for Good Causes will be setting up shop at Harlow Central Library from October 31 to raise funds for more than 25 national and local charities by selling cards, wrapping paper and gift tags.

But it still desperately needs volunteers to man the stall on Thursdays and Saturdays.

Area organiser Mary Cronin said: "The Harlow charity Christmas card shop is fully reliant on local volunteers and we are still short. We would be extremely grateful to anyone who can spare just a few hours a week to help out and know that they would also get a lot out of the experience in return."

It will be open from 10am-4pm from Monday to Saturday except for Wednesdays. For more information about volunteering, call Mary on (01255) 831262 or email mary.cronin@cfgc.org.uk.

Knitters needed to make a difference

NIFTY knitters are needed to create some woolly creations for good causes in Harlow.

As part of Make a Difference Day, volunteer centres across Essex are running a charity knitting campaign to help local organisations such as hospices and hospitals.

Individuals, community groups and even businesses are being encouraged to make a difference by either knitting their own creations or by donating unwanted wool.

"This is a lovely opportunity to use existing skills or get started with knitting to make useful items such as baby clothes for an organisation that needs a bit of a boost," said Volunteer Centre Harlow manager Della Nash.

For more information about joining the campaign, call Della on (01279) 308310, email dellanash@volunteercentreharlow.org.uk or visit www.volunteersex.org/madd where you can also download simple knitting patterns.

Drunken man admits offensive weapon charge

A MAN arrested by police after he was seen wielding a piece of wood in a Harlow street has pleaded guilty to having an offensive weapon in public.

Chelmsford Crown Court was told officers armed with CS spray were sent to Tyson Road in Harlow on August 12 after receiving reports that a man was in the middle of the street with a baseball-style bat.

When they arrived they found Christopher Quinn (24), of Berecroft, Harlow, wielding the piece of wood. They asked him several times to drop it but he replied: "Who the * is that? Get back?"

Prosecutor Christian Meikle said: "He lifted up the wood in an aggressive manner and an officer pulled out his CS gas spray.

"As the officer was 45 metres away, he warned Quinn to put it down and he replied: 'What the * is that in your hand?' before he eventually put down the wood.

Mr Meikle said that when he was interviewed after being arrested, Quinn said he had drunk a large amount of alcohol and had been close to "being paralytic".

He said he picked up the piece of wood from a house while being followed by some friends and he was shouting at them to go away. He was of previous good character.

Peter Butterfield, representing Quinn, lodged a care plan for the defendant with the court and urged the court to impose a sentence that would allow him to continue his medical treatment.

Quinn was given a two-year supervision order with a condition that he must keep appointments with a consultant psychiatrist at Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Celeb cousins enjoy star treatment

CELEBRITY cousins Sophia Grace Brownlee and Rosie McClelland have been rubbing shoulders with some of the top stars from the world of showbusiness since winning a Teen Summer Award in California in the summer.

The pop princesses from Old Harlow have starred in Nicki Minaj's latest music video, sung to Alicia Keys on the red carpet and attended a birthday party for the son of Britney Spears.

Grace (9) and Rosie (5) have been busy maintaining their status as A-list celebrities. Demand for the youngsters, who currently divide their time between Harlow and Los Angeles in order to record their regular features for the Ellen DeGeneres Show, has continued to soar, with offers of further television work and even talks of them releasing their own single now in the pipeline.

"So much has happened I'm not sure where to start," Sophia Grace's dad Dominic told the Star this week. "After winning the award the girls were invited by Will.i.am to join him in his studio as he is interested in making a song with Sophia Grace.

"They have also continued their 'Tea Time with Sophia Grace & Rosie' slot on Ellen's show and were recently joined by Katy Perry and Justin Bieber. They also got to interview all the stars on the red carpet at last month's MTV Video Music Awards.

"Sophia Grace also just got back from a weekend in Copenhagen, Denmark, where she was playing the part of Nicki Minaj in a music video set to be released in three weeks, and she will start recording her first song this year."

Dominic said that while both girls were continuing to enjoy their time in spotlight, they were still managing to keep up with their schoolwork.

"People always ask me about how Sophia Grace is getting on at school and the funny thing is since we have been going to America her maths and reading have improved!" he added.

"The school has been very supportive towards the girls and we thank them for being so helpful along the way. It has been an amazing journey for both girls and we are all looking forward to the future."

Rosie's mum, Danielle, added: "The girls' schooling is a main priority of ours and they have both settled back into school in the UK perfectly. Their headmaster has been one hundred per cent supportive and Rosie is doing amazingly well.

"We still as a family feel so very grateful and fortunate for the amazing children we have and for all the opportunities that we have been given, and want to thank everyone for their continuous support and interest in our girls."

Staff at the Odeon cinema in Harlow town centre were called on to hand out glasses of water to squeamish film fans who found the latest horror movie Hellraiser a little too much to stomach.

Seven days spent living rough in the windswept Yorkshire Dales was one of the challenges faced by the men and women of 70 Essex Yeomanry Signal Squadron during an action-packed annual camp. Helicopter tale is true after all

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ONE Nostalgia contributor is relieved after readers were able to put his mind at rest.

Ian Kennett, of Felmongers, wrote in to ask if anyone else could remember the spire of the Lady of Fatima Church being lowered into place by helicopter.

At first it seemed his memory may have been playing tricks as reader Phillip Green tracked down an archived article on the BBC website which stated the spire had been lifted into position by a crane, adding: "The article said the spire was kissed by 80 children before being put into place!" Pauline Brewster backed up Mr Green's theory after finding photographic evidence of the crane being used.

"After reading the article I looked in the booklet - The Church of Our Lady of Fatima - which was printed in 1960," she explained. "There inside were pictures of the spire arriving on the back of a truck and then being lifted by a crane [above right], so I am sorry but I think Mr Kennett's memory is wrong!"

But then reader John Barnes, of Old Road, got in touch to say that Mr Kennett was correct.

"The spire at the Lady of Fatima Church was lowered on to the main building by a helicopter," he said. "My father-in-law, Roy Wenban, worked for Holst and Company - the firm that built the church - and he told us about the use of a helicopter to position the spire."

Peter Moss, of Collins Meadow, not only confirmed Mr Kennett's memory but also said he, too, had witnessed the spectacle.

"My wife and I moved to Harlow in 1956 and I worked at the Kenning's garage on the opposite corner," he explained. "I watched enthralled as the spire was lowered by helicopter."

Margaret Hopkins, of Epping, also remembered the helicopter as she was at home that day nursing her young daughter.

"From my top floor Tany's Dell flat I saw the helicopter deliver the spire to Our Lady of Fatima Church and heard it," she recalled. "The noise worried my baby daughter."

"The town's official history - Harlow: The Story of a New Town - has a photo of the church with the caption: The spire was placed in position by a helicopter."

But it was Colin Porcher, of St John's Avenue, who may have finally hit the nail on the head regarding the mystery.

"From what I remember a crane was initially used to lift the spire into place," he explained. "However, I don't think the crane was tall enough so they then went on to use the helicopter."

Secretary Ruby worked in team of scientist Alec

A FEW weeks ago Harlow Civic Society made an appeal for Nostalgia readers who knew locally-based scientist Alec Reeves to get touch.

The society is hoping to develop a more personal account of the man dubbed the "father of the digital age" ahead of the unveiling at the Water Gardens of a plaque in his honour tomorrow (Friday).

Ruby Hassan, of The Hornbeams, wrote in to share what she knew about Mr Reeves, who was a member of Sir Charles Kao's team at Standard Telecommunications Laboratories which was credited with the discovery of fibre optic communication. "I worked as Alec Reeves' secretary and for part of his team in 1968-69," said Ms Hassan. "During that period The Times published a feature article in which he gave an exposition of his work on digital technology and pulse code modulation for which he received the Franklin Institute's Stuart Ballantine Medal in 1965."

"Later - I believe in the '70s - the Royal Mail issued a postage stamp on pulse code modulation in telecommunications."

Although Ms Hassan said she had little to add in the way of personal memories, she remembers that Mr Reeves "saw no distinction between art and science".

"He visualised work he was doing on his bread board in his mind," she added. "I also recall that he used to refer to helping those with whom he had some association as 'lame dogs'."

● If you knew Alec Reeves or have any personal images of him, write to Nostalgia, 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or email vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

Keeping track of bad tenants

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

AN innovative new service helping private landlords safeguard themselves against problem tenants has been launched in Harlow.

The free-to-use Tenants History website allows landlords and letting agencies to rate their current tenants and check the tenancy history of those searching for a new property.

And in a bid to stop troublesome tenants from vacating their rented property without warning, the online tool also alerts landlords if their tenants' details are searched for on the website, indicating that they are looking for a new letting.

Steve Hanbury, pictured right, who set up the website as an additional branch of his family's London-based buy-to-let business, said: "Landlords are sometimes the last to know when a problem tenant decides to leave their property, often disappearing without warning or not paying their final month's rent."

"The website means that landlords will always be among the first, not the last, to know that their tenants are thinking of moving. This gives the landlord a chance to inspect the property and meet with their tenant before they move on – or even try and do a runner."

He said the service was fully compliant with data protection laws. "No-one's details can be posted on the website without their approval," he said. "Understandably, people are sensitive about the availability of their personal information but the service simply gives their name, address and landlord's rating, which varies from none to gold."

"Good tenants who always pay their rent on time and don't cause their landlords trouble will be able to use the service as an extra reference when looking for a new property, and anyone who disagrees with their rating can challenge it."

Chris Clements is among the first batch of private landlords in Harlow to sign up for the service, which she described as an extra layer of protection for landlords.

"I've had terrible problems with tenants in the past who have refused to pay their rent, so as soon as I heard about the website I decided to register for the service," she explained.

"It just makes perfect sense for landlords, and if tenants have got nothing to hide then they've got nothing to worry about."

"It acts as a useful reference for landlords and letting agencies and will help give that extra peace of mind that comes with knowing you've got trustworthy tenants."

For more information, visit the website at www.tenantshistory.co.uk.

Pub chain's search for unsung heroes

A HARLOW pub is searching for the town's unsung heroes as it launches a new bursary scheme for local community groups.

The Potters Arms in Church Langley Way will give those who give their time to improve the lives of others the chance to scoop a share of a £10,000 funding pot to help further their work.

Emma Price, spokesperson for pub operator Brewers Fayre, said: "Previous awards allowed us to support some very worthy winners and we can't wait to do the same again this year.

"It's so important to recognise those people around the UK who devote their own time to helping good causes. This bursary is intended to ensure the fantastic work they are doing continues for many years to come."

To nominate someone for this year's awards, log on to www.brewersfayre.co.uk/localheroes and fill in the entry form or pick up an application form from the pub.

Health club in running for award

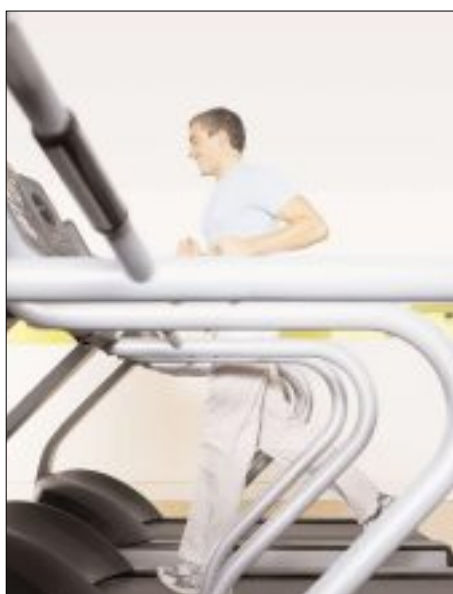

A HARLOW hotel is hoping to outmuscle the competition after its revamped health and fitness centre was shortlisted for a National Fitness Award.

The Innaction Health Club at the Park Inn Hotel, in Southern Way, is up for Best Hotel Facility of the Year at the annual awards ceremony taking place in Leicester on November 30.

It follows the investment of £65,000 into the facilities by private operators Leisure Connection Hotel and Private Management, which has resulted in an increase in membership of 30 per cent in the past year.

The club, which is open to the public as well as hotel guests, now boasts a 20-station gym, swimming pool, sauna, spa whirlpool bath, fitness studio and sunbeds.

Steve Bambury, head of hotels at Leisure Connection said: "We have invested a huge amount of time and money into the Harlow Park Inn Innaction Health and Fitness Centre to ensure we provide the local community with a quality and usable facility.

"We are absolutely delighted to have been shortlisted and feel very proud of our staff at the centre who have helped us to provide such a fantastic service to the local community."

SIR, I am sad but not surprised to learn that Harlow's Welfare Rights & Advice Service may close in the near future, for it has been on borrowed time for more years than I can remember.

Politicians of all three parties have periodically expressed their concern at how the organisation was being run. Against our better judgement large sums of taxpayers' money has been invested in an organisation that, if truth be told, was not the best vehicle with which to deliver advice on welfare rights and benefits.

The acting chairman of the trustees, Les Coben, has expressed concern that the town's most vulnerable residents will have nowhere to turn to for specialist help and advice, but that is not quite true. Many communities across Essex are well served by the Citizens Advice Bureau.

Only last Thursday I visited the CAB in Chelmsford and was truly impressed with the quality and range of services that they provided.

We in Harlow also enjoy an excellent CAB. Perhaps this is the time when, in the interests of the people whom we all like to claim we truly care for, the HWRA and CAB consider joining forces to provide a comprehensive range of services that in these difficult times we can afford to support.

If such a pooling of skills and experience could be agreed upon I am sure Harlow's four county councillors would work tirelessly to do what they could to support such a joint venture.

It's mean, petty and cowardly

SIR, The grotesque closure by a Labour council of the Harlow Welfare Rights and Advice Centre – the foremost source of help for people in the greatest need in our society in these times of punishing austerity – is an act of mean-minded, cowardly pettiness.

Mean-minded because the sum at issue was no more than £30,000, which the HWRA had guaranteed to cover in instalments. Cowardly because the councillors, with two exceptions, were convinced by the officers that the council would be liable for any debts in the event of insolvency. Petty-minded and vindictive because the council closed down the phones at 4pm on Friday afternoon, leaving many

"Here is a shot of a white Crab Spider on a buddleia flower taken on August 8," writes Ian.

Do you have a photograph taken in Harlow that you think is good enough to feature in the Photo of the Week section? If so, we would love to see it.

Email a high resolution copy in jpeg format along with a brief description of your photograph, when and where it was taken and your name and address to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

Please insert 'Photo of the Week' in the subject line of your email.

I was shocked when she told me that she did not encourage this practice and I was told in future to e-mail the names of any interested parties to her and she would put them on a waiting list.

What good is a waiting list to a talented 12-year-old child who has an Olympic dream like Mr. Osagie?

I'm sure Harlow Athletics Club do lots of positive work, but they've failed to meet the demands managing the Olympic legacy.

Think before you dial 999

SIR, In response to the article headline "OAP's two-hour wait for medics (Star, October 11), I have every sympathy for Jean Vandersteen. Her long wait for an ambulance must have been agonising and very frustrating. But on reading the article I felt that the East of England Ambulance spokesperson was a little too polite in his answer and a bit too vague on why the ambulance could have taken so long.

One of the reasons for the delay could well have been that they were busy on other emergency life-threatening calls, on the opposite side of the town or even out of town on a major incident. We also need to remember that when they take a patient to hospital it is not just a case of drop-off and leave – they have to wait until there is a member of nursing staff available to hand over the patient and sometimes they may have to wait for quite a while if A&E is busy.

They also could have been attending one of the thousands of time-wasting calls they receive from idiots who either think it is funny to waste vital resources or don't have enough sense to realise what they are doing.

When a 999 call is made to the operators the caller is directed through to the ambulance service. If the caller puts the phone down during the call, the service can't take the risk the person has changed their mind about their need and, by law, they have to attend the address and investigate the reason for the caller putting down the phone.

So before we all slam the service, can we just take a minute and think: Do I really need an ambulance to take me to hospital? Could I see my GP, get a taxi or a kindly friend or family member to take me instead of calling 999 and blocking the phone line and taking up an ambulance that could really and truly be needed by the likes of Jean Vandersteen?

I guarantee that nine times out of 10 the answer will be you don't need an ambulance.

Remember, it's an accident and emergency service. If your complaint is neither then stay away and see your GP or treat yourself.

Leave the resources for those who need them.

Tory promise of even more cuts

SIR, David Brown's characterisation of the jobs fair organised by Harlow MP Robert Halfon as a laughable, sticking plaster idea (Letters, October 11) seems reasonable in the light of a recent report by the International Monetary Fund, which stated that in advanced economies, growth is now too low to make a substantial dent in unemployment.

The IMF's World Economic Outlook, issued on October 8, also predicted that the British economy would shrink by 0.4 per cent this year.

Furthermore, the IMF admitted that every one per cent cut in GDP due to austerity measures causes a cut in the growth of GDP of between 0.9 per cent and 1.7 per cent.

The adverse effects of government austerity measures mentioned in Mr Brown's letter are just the beginning of the treats that people in Harlow can expect from the Con-Lib coalition.

Most of the cuts have not yet come into effect and David Cameron has promised more of the same, ignoring the call by IMF boss Christine Lagarde for a slowdown in the implementation of austerity measures across the world.

There is now a foodbank in Harlow. That some residents of a town in one of the richest countries on Earth have been reduced to relying on the charitable whims of others for their food is something of which Mr Halfon should be ashamed. The need for the foodbank is a product of the neo-liberal economic policies of which he is an advocate.

These policies are an act of class war, one of the aims of which is to drive down wages and raise the rate of profit in the interests of those who hold the hundreds of billions in idle capital to which Mr Brown makes reference.

The hymn of hatred of the poor that spewed from the mouths of Thatcherite epigones at the recent Conservative Party conference acted to further this agenda. George Osborne's bizarre attack on those who keep their blinds closed was a disgraceful attempt to divert popular anger against his government and their bourgeois buddies by stoking the petty vindictive paranoid instincts of certain embittered products of the age of greed inaugurated by his idol, with a view to building support for further cuts in benefits.

Cuts in benefits act to drive down wages and that is why the Conservative Party is demonising the poor. We must not forget that an injury to one is an injury to all.

Club is failing Games legacy

SIR, I really enjoyed reading your article "Harlow can be home to next GB Olympian" (Star, October 11) in which Andrew Osagie gave his views on the provision of sport for the town.

However, I'm not sure how this is going to occur as Harlow Athletics Club recently stopped accepting young athletes and has closed its doors to new members.

As a PE teacher, I recently received an e-mail from the chairwoman criticising me for taking the initiative by writing to the parents of my talented students, encouraging them to join Harlow Athletics Club's Tuesday evening training session.

cases unresolved and with no certainty about access to files, redundancy etc.

All this in spite of the fact that the sum in question was very small and the shortfall the result of temporary cashflow problems.

Many people in Harlow will remember the storm of protest four years ago when the Tory council tried to close the advice centre. That Labour councillors could endorse such a decision at this time is incredible. Don't they know that we are supposed to be on the side of those in need?

I hope there will be an equally large protest at this latest act of hard-heartedness as there was before, and that all of those who have been helped by the dedicated staff will remember and protest.

Teach kids how to cross a road

SIR, Please would all parents discuss with their children how dangerous it can be crossing a road. I drop off and pick up my son from Burnt Mill Academy every day and the amount of near misses I see with kids of all ages running across the road without looking is incredible. But this morning was the last straw.

I was approaching the zebra crossing opposite the school. The lights were green when a small boy, approximately eight years old and on a scooter, pushed through the waiting children and crossed the road, causing me to brake sharply. He then scooted across the road without a care in the world, immediately followed by the other waiting children who automatically followed him without looking or thinking. The majority were texting.

When I gestured to them that the lights were in fact still green they laughed. It wouldn't have been funny if a bus had come along at that moment, would it?

The small boy then did exactly the same thing across the entrance to the school, crossing in front of my car without even glancing up.

As someone who has recently assisted a child on a bike who was hit by a car I have to blame the parents as these children have absolutely no fear of the roads or what a moving vehicle can do to them.

Age is irrelevant as I have seen it in youngsters as well as older teenagers. Please teach them to cross a road safely – I can guarantee they won't get hit by a car twice.

Jail for thugs who attacked man on train

TWO men who threatened to stab a train passenger before stealing his mobile phone have been jailed.

Dean Halloran (35) and Asha Downer (31) threatened, assaulted and stole from the passenger on a train travelling between Harlow Town and Tottenham Hale rail station earlier this year.

Wood Green Crown Court heard the victim, a 29-year-old man from London, had boarded the carriage and sat down with his phone in his hand.

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

About 20 minutes into his journey he was approached by the defendants who at first tried to start up a conversation with him.

The pair became increasingly aggressive before Halloran tried to snatch the iPhone from the victim's hand.

During the struggle that followed the victim was struck in the face by Downer and both defendants shouted violent threats.

The victim managed to get away and alert the train driver, but Halloran and Downer got off the train with his phone at Tottenham Hale station.

A successful appeal for information using images captured on CCTV cameras subsequently identified both Halloran and Downer as the culprits but by that time both were already serving custodial sentences for unrelated crimes.

Halloran and Downer, both from London, pleaded guilty to robbery and were each jailed for 27 months.

Speaking after the hearing, Detective Constable Paul Cudby of British Transport Police said: "Frightening offences like this are very rare on the rail network but, when they do occur, they are treated with the utmost seriousness.

"Halloran and Downer committed a thuggish and cowardly crime, which was extremely intimidating for the victim.

"His account, combined with excellent CCTV evidence, gave both no other option but to plead guilty to their offences."

The first session at 11am next Saturday (November 3) will see Professor Carl Ross from the University of Portsmouth delving into the world of extraterrestrial life.

Events organiser Francesca Pellegrino said: "If you have ever wondered about other life in space then this talk is for you!"

Let the professionals take the festive strain

If you fancy spending your Christmas Day this year being waited on rather than put upon, why not let the professionals take the strain and go out for Christmas lunch?

There's no doubt about it – the mere mention of Christmas Day leaves many of us salivating at the prospect of a big juicy turkey with crispy roast potatoes, cranberry sauce and all the trimmings.

But while the idea of sitting down to enjoy delicious Christmas dishes appeals to most, the idea of slaving over the oven and tirelessly peeling a seemingly endless mountain of vegetables might not! From traditional to slightly more exotic options, there are many different choices when it comes to spending Christmas in our local area.

Perhaps you like idea of checking into one of the larger hotels on Christmas Eve for a couple of days and spending the time in the lap of luxury with a cornucopia of festive delights.

There are many local venues that certainly know how to put on a show, with champagne cocktails on arrival on Christmas Eve, a visit from Father Christmas on the big day itself and a hearty organised Boxing Day walk for those lucky enough to still be in residence.

Or perhaps you fancy something a little lower key with a visit to your favourite pub where you know the food is always good with an atmosphere to match.

Why not consider going out to a restaurant for your festive meal? Most restaurants offer Christmas dinner but be warned, make your reservation well in advance. You won't be the only one wanting to hand over the reins of responsibility on Christmas Day and many venues get booked up very fast. Don't spend a minute feeling guilty about not doing the hard work yourself. Once you arrive at your chosen venue and see the roaring log fire, sparkling lights on the Christmas tree and sip a glass of Champagne, it's amazing how quickly any feelings of guilt can disappear! And at the end of the day, you can return home to your own cosy Christmas haven, with no washing up!

JACK & JILL NURSERY The Monkswick Road nursery in Harlow was in the pink when staff held a fundraising day in aid of breast cancer research and care.

As part of National Breast Cancer
Awareness Month, staff and children wore pink clothes and superhero costumes to show their support for the fight against cancer.

They then enjoyed a day of fundraising activities including a bake sale, biscuit decorating and face painting before tucking into a pink feast. They raised more than £150 for charity.

Nursery nurse Humera Hamid said: "It was brilliant and the kids loved every minute of it.

"We like to do things for charity when we can so it was nice for our children to help raise such a good amount while also enjoying a nice treat."

JEROUNDS INFANTS

Book characters were brought to life when teachers and pupils dressed up as their favourites for the day.

The Cat in the Hat, Dennis
The Menace and Angelina Ballerina were among those helping the Pynest Road school celebrate its annual book week.

As well as working through a number of titles,
the youngsters completed
creative activities in class to test what they had learned and also enjoyed a visit from a local theatre company.

School spokesperson Nicola Pollard said it had been a really successful learning week for the kids.

"We culminated the week with children and staff
taking part in a parade dressed as their favourite book characters," she added.

"Throughout the week the children had great fun and really enjoyed the parade."

RUM TUM TUGGERS Dads enjoyed re-living their youth when they were invited to join their children at nursery school.

The 'bring your father to nursery' day at the Riddings Lane pre-school in Harlow gave dads the chance to build car race tracks, colour in pictures, decorate biscuits and have a go at role playing.

"I think many of the dads had more fun than their children," said senior nursery nurse Laura Cook. "We couldn't get rid of some of them at the end of the day!"

"It was brilliant, though, and both the dads and children had a lot of fun. There were some particularly commendable dinosaur impressions during our role-playing session and it turns out the dads were rather skilful when it came to decorating our Mr Potato Head, much to the children's amusement."

his son, Sawyer.

Lucky treasure hunter uncovers Roman gold

AN amateur treasure hunter got more than he bargained for when he stumbled across one of the UK's biggest-ever hoards of Roman gold coins while testing out his new metal detector.

The man found the stash on private land north of St Albans in Hertfordshire - which is only 23 miles from Harlow - earlier this month.

The 159 gold coins date back to the end of the 4th century, the final years of Roman rule in Britain.

The value of the treasure has not yet been properly assessed, but it is estimated to be worth in the region of £100,000.

A team of experts from the local museum service investigated the site at the beginning of October to confirm the find.

Councillor Mike Wakely called it "an exciting find of national significance" and said the coins would go on display at the Verulamium Museum in the city.

Museum curator David Thorold said that during Roman occupation coins were usually buried either as a gift to the Gods or to keep them safe.

"They would have been used for large transactions such as buying land or goods by the shipload," he said.

The Roman army left Britain more than 1,500 years ago, leaving behind them new roads, baths and sewers.

They also introduced new plants and animals to the country, including parsley, sweet chestnuts and chickens.

A community united in grief and kindness

THIS week in Harlow we've witnessed the very worst of human suffering and the best of humanity.

People of all faiths and all backgrounds have united to offer support to Dr Abdul Shakoor. We have been reminded not just of the strength and kindness of Harlow's community, but also of the dedication of our public services – particularly the role of fire officers, schools, police, doctors and nurses. But there has been something else, too. The values of faith have been incredibly important. The Harlow Islamic Centre has shown that it has become a very special part of our community and I am proud that we have such a place in our town. What has also been comforting has been the support given by Christian churches and the Synagogue in Harlow.

In particular, I am grateful to the Harlow Star which has acted as a real voice for residents in recent days.

The funeral of the Shakoor family took place yesterday. Today I would encourage everyone in Harlow, religious or not, to say a prayer.

Jobs fair

Over the past six months more than

MY VIEW FROM WESTMINSTER

by Harlow MP Robert Halfon

600 jobs have come back to Harlow. However, unemployment is still far too high.

That is why I have organised a jobs fair tomorrow (Friday) at the Harlow Leisurezone with the support of Harlow Chamber of Commerce, Harlow College, Mike Jackson, Jobcentre Plus, Seetec, and the deputy mayor of Bishop's Stortford.

More than 80 local firms will be attending, ranging from Asda to Raytheon. There will also be a number of CV workshops as well as other mentoring and training to help people get back into work.

Both Jobcentre Plus and Seetec are working hard to encourage young people to attend as there will be lots of apprenticeships on offer as well.

We are grateful to Anglia Ruskin University, Smiths Industries and Tesco for generously sponsoring the event, helping to keep entry free for Harlow people.

If you are able to attend between 10.30am and 3.30pm I would be delighted to see you there.

Petrol prices

I had another go at petrol prices in Parliament recently, suggesting a new law that would require the Government to show on our petrol and diesel receipts how much Harlow motorists are paying in tax and how much actually gets spent on our roads.

I am leading a campaign to stop the planned 3p rise in fuel duty that could hit us this January.

So far thousands of Harlow residents have helped me to stop two other petrol tax rises and to cut fuel duty last year. My hope is that the Government will listen again.

To see details of this, please see my blog at roberthalfon.blogspot.com or my campaign page at www.petrolpromise.com.

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20

Who owns, shares or contributes what in your life comes under the cosmic microscope this week. You can start to take any debts more seriously too, and find yourself determined to pare down your costs wherever possible. Yet relationships with one senior or older person can require a deft touch. Understand who holds the power in this situation Aries. Call for your financial forecast in full...

Taurus Apr 21-May 21

With your ruler Venus continuing to sparkle magically with the partnership location of Mercury, you may find yourself having a lively time. And if you are unattached, there could be some intriguing possibilities. For settled Bulls, this can be a time when a relationship goes from close, to very close. Yet if you are an unhappy, your gaze and mind can wander. Call for your love scope...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21

How are your fitness levels, Gemini? If you pride yourself on being a Born Again Couch Potato, this may be the time to take getting your pulse rate up, and caloric intake down, a whole lot more seriously. But try not to see this as a chore. As Mars moves through your sector of relating, it can give you the competitive spark to get stuck in and make a difference. Call for more astral advice...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23

Mars is going to give you considerable drive to get things done this week, and if you can balance creativity with industry, you can make real progress. With the Sun combining with Saturn however, you will need to narrow your focus. If you don't, you might try to achieve things on a superhuman scale. In love, will flirty words convert to something deeper? Call me for your love scope in full...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23

If you have been beautifying your home this month, you might want to invite those in your inner circle around to view progress. Then again, you may be thinking in more practical terms about where you live, about home working or a small business based in your abode. If you have a love of DIY, a project may well be on the go or germinating in your mind. Call for your in-depth forecast...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23

Chances are there has been some happy chatter this month, perhaps some flirty text messages and emails going back and forth too. Yet as much as this has been fun, now you can find yourself more interested in what people really stand for. You can debate, and maybe even disagree. But if you have felt the need for a challenge, a mental one may be best. Call for your love scope in full...

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23

You may have found yourself evaluating your life this month. Making the connections between the qualities people bring to your world and the values you share, may also have been important. A past investment, or shared asset may also pay off. Yet as much as you generally love your creature comforts, now you might find economizing more of a draw. Call now for more news and advice...

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22

The Sun powers into your sign, and immediately forges two key relationships, with Saturn and Neptune. The former asks you to bring greater self-discipline and structure to your plans, whilst the latter can see you involved in more altruistic situations. This may be a time of very significant new starts, but your energy may be at a premium. Prioritise your activities. Call now for more news...

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21

Mars in your sign goes face to face with Jupiter later this week, which can give you an enormous shot of self confidence. But might this border on over-confidence? With a clustering of energy in the most psychological part of your solar horoscope, becoming more aware of your deeper motives and motivations is going to become something of a theme. Call for more news and astral advice...

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20

Your ruler Saturn is joined by the Sun. This can have a limiting influence, or it can help you to get serious about what you want from your future. You may have achieved something quite major recently or have decided to set a new course, but either way, this is a time of reorientation towards the things that are meaningful, even those that don't always bring tangible rewards. Call for more...

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19

You might find yourself being saluted for your talents, this may even see a step up in responsibilities. With Mars boosting your independent side, you will need to juggle your natural inclination for freedom with the demands any new role expects of you. Yet if you have long wanted to achieve success, this can be a fine time to plot just how you can get there. Call for more advice...

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20

As the old saying goes, a change is as good as a rest. And you may sense that some kind of alteration is in the works, even if you can't quite put your finger right now, on exactly what this might be. Mars is pushing you to be more dynamic, to put any timidity to one side - but just how much will you dare? It's true this change may not be painless, but could prove priceless. Call me for more...

Raising the stakes for a gothic masterpiece

HAVE the fright of your life at Victoria Hall Theatre in Old Harlow this Hallowe'en as Harlow Theatre Company presents a chilling new adaptation of the gothic horror Dracula.

Billed as "more than just a play", director Martin Colton's ambitious new production promises to give audiences something they can really sink their teeth into.

"We've spent a lot of time putting the play together, and I'm using my experience of working in film production to make sure this will be an auditory-visual experience that people won't forget," he said.

Based on Scottish poet Liz Lochhead's acclaimed stage adaptation of Bram Stoker's classic novel, the adults-only play ramps up the hallucinatory tension by re-telling the story through the eyes of Renfield, a madman once employed by the dastardly Count himself.

"This is a tale of tragedy and the madness that comes with desire and power," said Martin. "Lochhead gives us this nightmare of a world where the line between sanity and insanity is difficult to distinguish."

He added: "This event is not suitable for children and it contains scenes of blood, death, lust and desire."

● Dracula opens at Victoria Hall Theatre, in Bury Road, on Wednesday and runs for four nights. Tickets cost £10 (£8 conc) and can be reserved by calling (01279) 420062 or by emailing info@harlowtheatrecompany.org.uk.

Stuart's challenge to readers to spot the 'runaway' dog

By BIANCA CASTRO

THE runaway dog that became an internet sensation when footage of him chasing deer in Richmond Park went viral is now the star of a new book written by a former Passmores School student.

The YouTube video of fleet-footed Fenton sprinting off while his exasperated owner gives chase has received more than seven million hits since being posted online last year. And now author and literary agent Stuart Cooper (51, pictured below), is hoping to cash in on the excitable Labrador's antics after publishing Find Fenton! – a Where's Wally?-style book that looks set to become a Christmas bestseller.

Stuart, who grew up in Harlow but now lives in Henham near Bishop's Stortford, told the Star: "I have always been a fan of the video. I just think it is a comedy classic; I've probably watched it 100 times and I always laugh."

"There are so many funny elements in just 47 seconds."

Beautifully illustrated by Stuart's pal Martin Berry, Find Fenton! sees the crafty canine causing havoc at various London landmarks, including gatecrashing the Queen's Garden Party at Buckingham Palace and running riot in Camden Market.

"There are a lot of references to popular culture throughout the book and different celebrities like Jedward and Susan Boyle will also be spotted by eagle-eyed readers," Stuart added.

Although the book is aimed primarily at children, Stuart said adults would also get plenty of enjoyment from it. "It's something to keep the whole family entertained," he said. "The children will like looking for Fenton and all the things he needs like his lead, a stick and a deer from Richmond Park, while the adults will appreciate the humour in some of the popular culture references."

● Find Fenton! is on sale now at all major high street and online booksellers, priced $9.99.

Fifty years on and Bond still packs a punch

SKYFALL certificate 12A, 2h23m

TIME waits for no man, not even the suave and sharply attired 007. In the 50 years since Ian Fleming's debonair secret agent introduced himself to Sylvia Trench at a card table in Dr No, global politics have changed beyond recognition.

The Iron Curtain has fallen, the Cold War has thawed, China has emerged as a superpower and terrorism has shifted into the digital realm, forcing James Bond and his colleagues at M16 to evolve.

And the actors who have been licensed to kill during these five turbulent decades, have each brought something new to the party.

Sean Connery married flirtatiousness with rugged machismo and bare-chested sex appeal, providing a template that successors have struggled to match.

George Lazenby invested his short-lived 007 with tender romance while Roger Moore arched an eyebrow with impish glee, doling out innuendo-laden one-liners with aplomb.

Timothy Dalton added darkness and grit to his emotionally tortured agent, then Pierce Brosnan restored parity between athleticism and charm, coming closest to the glory days of the 1960s.

The latest Bond, Daniel Craig, has rugged physicality in abundance, although his one-note interpretation of the spy has been criticised for a lack of personality. While Skyfall will do nothing to dispel those concerns, it is undoubtedly the best instalment of Craig's tenure to date.

Director Sam Mendes sensibly surrounds his leading man with an ensemble of award-winning actors who bring gravitas and humour to their iconic roles.

With Bond reportedly killed in action, section chief M (Dame Judi Dench) pens an obituary as a political storm rages around her. A database of M16 assets has fallen into the wrong hands, compromising undercover agents around the world.

This dereliction of duty puts M and Chief Of Staff Bill Tanner (Rory Kinnear) in the firing line and they are summoned to Westminster to give evidence before a committee including the new intelligence and security chief Mallory (Ralph Fiennes) and ambitious rival Clair Dowar (Helen McCrory).

While M fends off sustained attacks on her reputation, news filters through that Bond has survived and M engages him to track down menacing cyber terrorist Raoul Silva (Javier Bardem).

Working alongside Q (Ben Whishaw), Bond traverses the globe in search of Silva, crossing paths with the mysterious Severine (Berenice Marlohe) in a casino in Macau. And as the investigation continues, Bond unearths dark secrets from M's past that threaten to bring down the whole of M16.

Skyfall looks stunning and the action sequences don't disappoint. But Bond's 23rd assignment pares back the slam bang thrills to concentrate on characterisation and plot, putting Dench's authority figure at the centre of the betrayal.

In the brilliantly orchestrated action sequences, Craig is in his element and Mendes opens with a breathtaking 12-minute pre-credits sequence, which draws heavily from the Bourne franchise to propel Bond and field agent Eve (Naomie Harris) through the winding streets of Istanbul.

Bardem is deliciously camp and menacing, recalling classic villains of yore as he berates M for her deceptions in one breath and then guns down innocent bystanders without mercy.

Dench is wonderful and excels when she abandons her desk for the field of action. Supporting actress Oscar nominations have been bestowed for far less.

Whishaw asserts himself as a gadget geek with a terrific introductory scene in an art gallery, while Fiennes and Harris acquit themselves well.

The closing 20 minutes are the only obvious misstep by screenwriters Neal Purvis, Robert Wade and John Logan, who telegraph their intentions early on.

To tie up the loose ends, the writers hurriedly introduce an additional character – Bond's old gamekeeper Kincade (Albert Finney) – who exists purely to manoeuvre characters into the correct positions.

Director Mendes gets high on nostalgia to the obvious delight of Bond purists, but spends slightly too long looking back and not enough looking forward.

Consequently, the lacklustre final showdown is more befitting of an episode of The A-Team than the second biggest film franchise in history.

But as the mission ends in apparent tragedy, it heralds the sombre chords of Adele's soaring theme song that harks back to the belting ballads of Shirley Bassey.

MADAGASCAR 3: EUROPE'S MOST WANTED (3D & 2D) Alex, Marty, Melman and Gloria leave Africa to return to New York's Central Park Zoo but first head to Monte Carlo to reunite with the penguins. After a close encounter with tenacious animal control officer Captain Chantel DuBois, they seek refuge on a circus train and persuade Vitaly the tiger, Gia the jaguar (Jessica Chastain) and Stefano the sea lion that they, too, are performing animals. As they train alongside the professionals, they know they must impress a big promoter in Rome in order to secure a booking in the Big Apple.

FRANKENWEENIE (2D) Victor Frankenstein is an outcast in the sleepy community of New Holland where he lives with his parents. His only friend is a bull terrier called Sparky so when tragedy strikes and Sparky is laid to rest in the pet cemetery, Victor is plunged into despair. Then teacher Mr Rzykruski plants the seed of an outlandish idea and in the dead of night Victor digs up the dead dog, constructs a machine to harness lightning and brings him back to life. Once classmates Toshiaki and Edgar (Atticus Shaffer) discover Victor's breakthrough, they plot similar experiments with their own pets.

HOTEL TRANSYLVANIA Hotel Transylvania is a five-star resort run by Dracula and situated far from the eyes of pesky humans. Monsters flock to the hotel for their holidays and Dracula invites some of his favourite guests to celebrate the 118th birthday of his daughter, Mavis. When wayward tourist Jonathan stumbles upon the hotel, Dracula has to hide the human interloper from his guests. But once Jonathan's true lineage is revealed to all and sundry, he helps to dispel myths about humans and establishes deep bonds of friendship with his blood-sucking hosts.

PARANORMAL ACTIVITY 4 In a leafy community in Nevada, plucky teenager Alice (Kathryn Newton) lives with her parents (Stephen Dunham, Alexandra Lee) and younger brother, Wyatt (Aiden Lovekamp). When a single mother who lives next door, is taken ill, Alice's mother agrees to provide temporary refuge for the sick woman's son, Robbie (Brady Allen). Alice quickly realises that there is something peculiar about the new arrival and grows concerned by the control that Robbie seems to exert over Wyatt. With the help of her boyfriend Alex (Matt Shively), Alice rigs up cameras around her family home to spy on Robbie.

TAKEN 2 Bryan (Liam Neeson) continues to be protective of his daughter Kim (Maggie Grace), who he rescued from Albanian kidnappers and returned home safely to her mother Lenore (Famke Janssen). When Lenore's current partner storms out, Bryan suggests that his ex-wife and daughter join him in Turkey for a few days of sight-seeing and relaxation. But little does the former agent realise that Murad (Rade Serbedzija) – the father of one of the Albanian brutes he killed in the first film – has amassed a small army to extract revenge on him and his loved ones.

PARANORMAN (2D) Norman (voiced by Kodi Smit-McPhee) speaks with the dead and is told by deranged uncle Prenderghast (John Goodman) he is the only person who can save his town from a centuries-old witch's curse.

A Winter's Sale?

There are all sorts of reasons why people put off selling their property in the belief that there could be a better time to do it: it's too cold, it's too wet, the house is not looking its best, Christmas, school holidays, etc. At this time of the year many people say they will wait until the spring before putting their home on the market, as that is supposedly the best time to sell.

Whilst properties certainly look more appealing in the spring, there are solid reasons for selling earlier. Firstly, whilst you can choose when you sell, a buyer's timing is usually more likely to be determined by circumstances rather than the season. Serious buyers won't let Christmas deter them.

Secondly, many properties come onto the market in the spring thereby increasing supply, meaning buyers have more choice and are in a stronger bargaining position, particularly if the market softens. It also means that, by the time a buyer is found, you will be able to take advantage of this increase in supply yourself as you seek a new home. Having a buyer for your own property ahead of everyone else puts you in a strong position as a purchaser, with a selection of properties from which to choose in a market of buyers who have otherwise yet to sell.

This time of year usually produces a sharp increase in the supply of qualified buyers who want to conclude a sale by Christmas - and often at top prices too.

So why wait, when you can take advantage of today's market? If you are contemplating moving, please phone us on 01279 444988 to discuss how our marketing plan could have you sold by Christmas. Your timing might just be perfect.

Commercial Property Feature

Making the most from development potential

COKE Gearing are pleased to report that the market has returned to some semblance of normality following the particularly quiet summer season marked by the combination of jubilee celebrations and the Olympic Games.

In recent weeks we have successfully completed the acquisition of the former Pearce House hotel complex for clients, the sale of the Braefield Engineering Works in High Lane, Stansted, to CastleOak for redevelopment as a care home, and the acquisition of the former Pearsons department store on behalf of developer clients.

All the above exhibit a common thread relating to the re-use of buildings and sites which have outgrown their economic usefulness within one particular use class but have been acquired in relation to the development potential that they offer for change of use, subject to planning.

For example, the Braefield Engineering site – which currently employs approximately 15 full-time workers – will now employ 60 full- and part-time staff in its new guise as a care home offering much-needed facilities for our ageing population.

Pearsons department store is likely to be retained in a largely retail format as far as the North Street frontage is concerned. However, the building requires extensive modernisation and offers the opportunity to construct modern premises behind the existing listed facade. Our clients are currently preparing a planning application for submission to East Hertfordshire District Council.

Elsewhere, the industrial market has picked up slightly, with recent lettings at Stort Valley and Haslemere Industrial Estates indicating the continued level of demand in what is rapidly becoming an under-supplied market for modern industrial warehouse premises.

Adapting to the needs of changing work practices

MANY in the property industry will be aware that the market for offices in sub-regional centres has been very difficult over the past few years.

Changing working practices such as remote working from home, hot-desking and the reduction in the number of staff through the increased use of technology has reduced most occupiers' demand for offices, the atypical trend being downsizing.

The merging of small- to medium-sized professional practices is also a significant influence as those practices consolidate their space needs. Against these changes, it is not surprising that smaller towns are suffering from an oversupply of offices in most instances.

However, somewhat against the trend, Derrick Wade Waters has been investing time and energy in the office market, resulting in a considerable amount of take-up during 2012.

As an example, the practice was given instructions to market approximately 30,000 sq.ft. at Stag House, a landmark building in the centre of Hertford. When constructed in the early 1990s, the property was let to two principle tenants, both of whom decided to vacate the premises at the end of their leases in 2011.

By advising the landlord regarding refurbishment works and improved signage, the space was offered in suites from 3,000 sq.ft. and the property repositioned from its former local government use and targeted at commercial occupiers. As a result, we have concluded four, including 4,500 sq.ft. to solicitors Breeze and Wyles, and 3,000 sq.ft. to accountants Meyer Williams.

In addition to the above, we have successfully concluded further disposals over our region including Chingford, Harlow, Hertford, Hoddesdon, Waltham Abbey, Waltham Cross, and Ware.

For further advice as to how we can assist you in marketing your offices, please contact our office specialist, Amanda Moulder, on (01279) 620222 or email am@dw.co.uk.

Crossover Chevy breaks new ground

By Matt Joy

If there's a market niche that has yet to be explored you can bet your bottom dollar that there are marketing people looking at a flow chart right now, trying to work out what it is and how to make something to fit into it.

It's a remarkable sign of the times that we can be sold something we didn't know we needed in the first place – but then the way segment-busting crossover cars have taken off suggests we like the idea of a car that is just for us.

And if giving people what they want is the short cut to success, then Chevrolet has been following it to the letter in recent years. Once seen as something of a bit player in the UK the European arm of the General Motors giant has been rapidly rolling out successive models and broadening its portfolio to the point where there is something for everyone with a reasonable price tag as standard.

Now Chevrolet is breaking into new territory with the Trax, a compact SUV crossover that sits somewhere between conventional small SUVs, MPVs and hatchbacks. Chevrolet says it doesn't have a direct rival but rather a number of competitors from different sectors, and on closer examination you can see where they're coming from. It's certainly a chunky beast, with the stance and presence of an SUV but at only 4.2m in length it is only 20cm longer than an Aveo supermini, giving it the kind of looks and feel of a proper 4x4 but enough manoeuvrability to be a car you can take anywhere. It's definitely worth ensuring you have the larger 17-inch wheel option to make the most of the looks.

And, of course, to appeal to SUV buyers it has to have the high-set driving position, and despite being unquestionably a compact car the Trax firmly ticks that box. In fact the cabin is one of the Trax's best features: the driving position is very good, the view out is just as you would want it with plenty of light coming in and the space on offer is particularly impressive.

Up front there is generous head and legroom and the back seats are perfectly suited to carrying adults – so the kids will love them. There's a sizeable boot too, with 358 litres seats up and a hefty 1,370 folded down. Even better is the way the cabin all fits together. Climb inside and it has a premium appearance, certainly a step above what you'd expect given the price tag. The materials themselves are hardy and well constructed rather than luxurious, but it's hard not to be impressed by the way it looks. It's helped a great deal by the My Link system, which brings a large touchscreen onto the centre console. It responds accurately to inputs and with downloadable apps to cover everything from music to navigation and social networking, it has virtually limitless possibilities and gives the Trax a big advantage over its rivals.

Underneath the Trax's skin there is a choice of 1.4-litre turbocharged and 1.6-litre naturally aspirated petrols and a 1.7-litre diesel, with all bar the 1.6-litre base engine available with four-wheel drive.

From behind the wheel the 1.4-litre turbo is the pick of the bunch, as it manages to combine brisk acceleration and generous torque with highly respectable economy and emissions performance.

The 1.4-litre is more than acceptably quiet right from start up, and the six-speed manual gearbox fitted as standard has a fuss-free, smooth shift action. Although small in capacity the 1.4-litre turbo offers a strong 147lb.ft of torque, allowing you to get rolling easily and make short work of staying in the flow of traffic.

Despite the fact that wind noise picks up a little at higher motorway speeds overall refinement is good too, creating a relaxing environment for passengers.

The Trax is clearly designed to be practical and comfortable first and foremost, and as a result the suspension is set up to deliver an unflustered ride. Even with the larger 17-inch wheels it manages to deal with the majority of road imperfections, and even the big holes don't spoil the ride to any great extent. Should you choose to push the Trax on a back road it will play along happily, and it resists significant body roll with impressive ease.

Chevrolet makes a strong case for the Trax, as it packs so many features that buyers are looking for into a compact and good value package. With prices expected to be less than the related Vauxhall Mokka it could be a bargain family car that ticks so many boxes.

Scrap

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

BERR

End of the road? Get over it and move on with your local ATF:

B & T Motor Salvage

We offer free collection, on the same day if necessary, using our own recovery vehicles and issue a Certificate of Destruction from the Department of Vehicle Licensing Authority via our direct link to their website. Payment per vehicle negotiable.

Tennis team end season with flourish

HARLOW Tennis Club got back to winning ways with a 9-7 win over Stansted in the final Small Clubs Mixed League match of the summer season.

Harlow pair Steve Dodd and Karen Butler won their first match against Anthony Dynamou and Felicity Shakespeare 6-2, 6-3 and then crucially in their second match drew the first set 6-6 and lost the second set 1-6 versus Ray Unwin and Carol Cook.

Harlow's pairing of Brenda Newland and Richard Stingemore lost their first match 3-6, 2-6 against Unwin and Cook but then followed this up with an excellent 6-3, 6-1 win against Anthony Dynamou and Felicity Shakespeare.

Severn up for special day

THE Harlow-based Stort Valley Angling Society's annual special outing saw several members travel to the river Severn at Bewdley in Worcestershire.

Unfortunately, the river was very high and conditions proved difficult.

Although several small barbel were caught on preceeding days only a solitary 2lbs 2oz chub was caught by Stort's Brian Walker on the match day, giving him the prestigious special outing trophy.

Coach Andy yearns to learn in Bahamas

FORMER Hawks star turned FA Tesco Skills coach Andy Edmunds has returned from a once-in-a-lifetime coaching experience in the Bahamas.

But far from being a place where he passed on his vast football knowledge, on the contrary, Harlow-based Edmunds has come back from the Caribbean with some fresh ideas and has shared them with the rest of the FA Tesco Skills team, exclaiming: "It wasn't all about what the locals could learn from us... it's what we learned from them!"

Edmunds was one of a select band of skills coaches given the opportunity to discover the techniques employed in the Bahamas as part of an eight-year relationship with The FA and local soccer and rugby camps.

These provide weekly coaching for children on the island.

They engage with approximately 240 children, both male and female, aged 5-16 years.

Edmunds, who has spells as a player at Harlow Town and Ware, explained how he learned all about enjoying football with limited resources.

"We worked with some excellent coaches and young leaders who support the teams week in, week out," he recalled.

"We provided session plans to help with their delivery and they gave us some ideas in exchange around behaviour management and excellent soccer drills using limited equipment.

"That was something I did find beneficial to bring back and share with my colleagues. It was a privilege to be involved in the trip as I've never worked abroad before."

Edmunds was based at the Freeport Rugby Football Club in Mather Town, an area which has a booming girls development league.

Football is already the fastest-growing youth sport on Grand Bahama – and the recent girls' league season exhibited that as organisers had to close registrations at 280, then had to close the waiting list as well!

Each year the Sir Jack Hayward Soccer Camp attracts a big turnout for its five-day run, and 2012 was no different.

The attendance fee was held for the seventh successive year, despite big increases in the cost of running it, which made it especially attractive.

Edmunds, who works for the Essex FA throughout the county, said: "The coaches in the Bahamas manage small teams, so we also played a lot of 3v3, 4v4 and 5v5 small-sided games.

"We encouraged them to think about different formations and positions so the children learned various roles and responsibilities, as well as the game itself."

The three professional youth coaches representing The FA led a team of local assistants in teaching the youngsters new skills and generally putting them through their paces.

Edmunds, who still plays local non-League football having previously been at two professional clubs, said: "I've been very fortunate in my coaching career, working alongside some experienced people involved in different sports. I'm able to work in an environment I enjoy every day.

LEARNING CURVE: Andy Edmunds, middle right wearing vest with his first name on it, and the rest of the FA Tesco Skills coaches and young footballers and local coaches in the Bahamas (s)

"I work with a lot of different people of different societies, races and backgrounds. It's very challenging but rewarding and, if I can continue to develop young children, I'll be very happy.

"I tested the Bahamian children and encouraged them to try new skills and techniques, to have no fear of failure and to have fun while learning."

He also found that the local coaches shared that ethos aligned with the FA Tesco Skills Programme – allowing the children to learn by having fun. "The Bahamian people showed enthusiasm and commitment throughout and they were absolutely brilliant.

"Even in the very hot weather conditions they still gave 110 per cent, making sure the children were having a fun time and an enjoyable experience."

"It was great to see so many children appreciate the coaches' fine work. I learned a few other things out there. On day one I found that if you say 'football' too many times instead of 'soccer' you're not the most liked coach! However, after a few days, I got used to the terminology and became a favourite!"

"Now I'll get back to working hard in Essex. We'll continue to engage with as many children, parents, teachers and coaches as possible, but we're also trying to work with areas which might have very little support.

"We'll be running festivals and supporting schools in many new areas, along with existing venues."

He added: "I've definitely come back from the Bahamas as a better coach. It was an exciting and challenging coaching experience which I will never forget."

conversion he will get this season.

Harlow reduced the deficit with their first try on 31 minutes.

After Dobson was held up just feet from the line, the ball was recycled to Powell and he nipped through a gap in the Woodham defence to score.

Dobson kicked a difficult conversion to level the score at 10-10.

As half-time approached Powell's excellent kick led to a period of pressure but when James Fricker stupidly failed to release two metres from the touchline Woodham won a cheap penalty and were able to clear their lines.

After Dobson narrowly missed a penalty, Harlow were stung when Woodham scored a third try on 66 minutes through flanker Ryan Marshall out wide on the left, but Reeve missed the conversion (10-15). Dobson narrowed the gap again with a penalty, but Reeve slotted over a 79th-minute penalty to douse any hope Harlow had of snatching all the points.

Stonehouse remains upbeat.

"In the next fortnight we have got to get a win. I really think we can beat every [team in this league]," he said.

There was a late sub appearance for forward James Ephgrave, who has returned to the club after a year away.

HARLOW: Mackie, Fricker, Powell, Heapy, Drake, Dobson, Woodington, Roze, Bolt, Stonehouse, Twiner, Unwin, Roberts, Oliver, Klaridge. Rolling subs: Ephgrave, Eynon, L. Bowering.

World champ a 'style guru' for BMX racers

By ALAN SCOTT

Sports Editor

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FORMER BMX freestyle world champion Mike McMullen spoke to students about his passion for the sport when he visited Harlow's Burnt Mill School.

McMullen (36) came to the Second Avenue school last Thursday as part of Sky Sports' 'Living For Sport' initiative, which sends sports men and women into secondaries to encourage youngsters to take up a particular sport.

McMullen, who lives in Welwyn Garden City and won the BMX World Freestyle Championship in Portugal in 1998, is now retired from the sport.

He competed for 25 years, starting out when he was just 11. He showed the Burnt Mill pupils videos of him in action at the world championships and spoke to Year 8 and 9 (12-14 year olds) about his passion for BMX freestyling, and revealed how he performs various tricks and jumps.

He told the Star: "I have been working for five or six years as a mentor, sharing my life experience and skills. I usually work with disaffected kids or those with behavioural problems. My sport is a vehicle for change in a positive way.

"One of the overall aims is engagement in the school to try and boost self-esteem and open up other opportunities that are not presently there.

"I spoke to the kids about how I got into it and how I learnt from it and how they could approach tricks.

"When I started BMX [freestyling] it was a big craze [in the 1980s]. There is now a resurgence."

McMullen was disappointed BMX freestyling was not part of the London 2012 Olympics.

"I believe there is scope for it to become an Olympic sport – but we need an organising body. Hopefully that's something I could work towards in the future, getting that organisation together and progress in the sport," he explained.

Burnt Mill PE teacher Neil Coster said McMullen's visit was part of the school's programme to promote less mainstream sports as part of an Olympic legacy.

In the following months, students will get the opportunity to learn and try out sports such as canoeing, tae kwon do, gymnastics and archery, essentially sports that are not typically part of the school curriculum.

Coster said: "The children have latched onto the Olympic sports. We have run handball sessions for 45 boys every

The boys have been coming in at

Students will now start running after-school BMX freestyle sessions.

Freestyle BMX is a synonym for BMX stunt riding, a sport branch that hails from extreme sports. It consists of five disciplines: street, park, vert, trails, and flatland.

Freestyling can be traced back to 1975 when children started riding bikes in concrete Escondido reservoir channels in San Diego, California.

The American Freestyle Association (AFA) was the first governing body for BMX freestyle, founded by Bob Morales in 1982. Freestyle BMX riders participate in several well-established disciplines. As in the other forms of freestyle riding, there are no specific rules; style/aesthetics, skills, and creativity are stressed. Street riders tend to have no brakes.

Skateparks are used by BMX riders as well as skateboarders, inline skaters and freestyle scooter-riders.

Concrete parks are also often publicly funded due to their permanent and costly nature. The one in Harlow is at the Town Park off School Lane and cost the town council £300,000 to build.

"Sky Sports have acquired the services of these guys from all different sports. Our pupils were poorly informed about what was available in Harlow for BMX freestyling. Mike passed on his skills," Coster added.

Both McMullen and Coster hope the taster session could unearth the next world champion from Burnt Mill. "It could happen. That's the whole point of these events. Unless you have a go with the BMX, you won't know if you're any good," added McMullen.

Youngsters up for Essex county spots

SIX Harlow youngsters have put themselves in contention for selection to represent Essex in the South of England Inter Counties Cross Country Championships.

Taking place in Woodford on Saturday December 8, the six Harlow Athletic Club members are in the mix after fine performances in both Essex League and London Metropolitan League meetings.

They are Lewis Harknett and Alfie Poole (U-13 boys), Canaan Solomon (U-15 boys), Rosie Poole (U-15 girls), Amelia Barrett (U-17 girls) and Perry Rowan (U-17 boys).

In the Met League at Woodford, Poole (11), a Stewards School student, achieved an excellent 4th spot in a 3km race. He clocked 11 minutes, 34 seconds.

In the U-15/U-17 boys combined 4km race, Rowan (15), a Burnt Mill School pupil, ran superbly to claim third spot in 13.55. Solomon (Mark Hall) was just behind him in fourth spot in 13.59.

In the U-15/U-17 girls combined 4km race, Burnt Mill's Barrett (16) was third in 16.26.

Thirteen-year-old Rosie Poole (Stewards), ran superbly to come 5th in 16.43.

This came after sterling performances by eight Harlow AC members in the Essex League at Great Notley.

In the U-13 girls 3km race Amy Whyte (11) ran a great race to come 18th in 13.08.

Three reasons to be cheerful

STEVE Murtagh had three reasons for celebration when he won a gold medal for being the first veteran 40 age group finisher in the Wix five mile race.

The event, which was held near Colchester and doubled up as the Essex Five Mile Championships, saw the Harlow Running Club (HRC) member set a personal best (PB) time of 27 minutes and 14 seconds.

Murtagh finished seventh from 303 finishers and also broke the HRC Vet 45 record.

Meanwhile, Marc Lowers was the first Harlow finisher at the first Metropolitan Cross Country League race of the season.

He completed the hilly five-mile course at Woodford in 35:47 and was 244th from 337 finishers.

Lowers was followed home by Sean Flynn (283rd, 37.49) and Alan Cootes (288th, 38.19).

Harlow runner Andy Kinney clocked an excellent time of 1hr 49 mins 37 secs in the Amsterdam Half Marathon. He was 4,259th of 12,727 runners.

Karate club quartet secure black belts

THE resilience of four players from Harlow Karate Club was tested before they went on to gain a senior shodan (1st dan black belt).

Burnt Mill student Ali Durrani, St Mark's pupil Sam Maddams, plus Odirra Onyema and Ral Onyema took part in the four-day grading process.

The examination at Radley College in Oxfordshire consisted of training sessions followed by a six-hour grading test.

The training sessions covered skills such as sparring, blocks, punches, sweeps and self-defence techniques.

The candidates demonstrated a selection of moves and skills needed to earn a black belt.

Durrani said: "We would like to thank Sensei Nariman Jeddi, 7th dan black belt and founder of Hanku Ryu Karate-Do, Sensei Lavender, 5th dan, and Sensei Reece Taylor (2nd dan)."

'I was ashamed of poor Hawks'

GRAYS ATH 4, HARLOW TOWN 1 RYMAN LEAGUE DIVISION ONE NORTH

A LACK of gumption angered Hawks boss Danny Chapman as his 10-man side slipped to a heavy defeat at table-topping Grays Athletic.

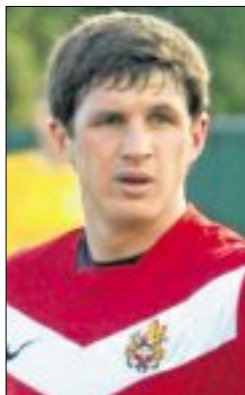

Winger Joao Carlos fired in a hat-trick as Saturday's game slipped away from the visitors after they had midfielder Hector Mackie, right, sent off in the 66th minute when the score was 1-1.

Mackie was sent off for two fouls.

Chapman said: "I could accept the first yellow card but not the second. It was a shocking decision. It was not a foul."

However, Chapman was left fuming by his team's lack of character when they went down to 10.

He blasted: "When we went down to 10, apart from Thomas Davie and Stanley Muguo we just accepted that we were going to get beaten.

"That was the disappointing thing for me. It is the first time I have been ashamed of my team as Harlow manager."

Earlier, Hawks striker Jeff Hammond was unable to beat home keeper George Kamurasi in two one-on-ones, while Hawks keeper Bertrand Bossu pulled off a fantastic save to tip over Carlos' goalbound effort on 16 minutes.

Harlow went ahead on 29 minutes. Hammond's through ball saw Davie beat his man and slot home.

Chapman said: "What impressed me was Thomas's determination to get there. He had a really good game. We could have been 3-0 up in the first 30 minutes."

A Kenny Beany shot hit the Harlow woodwork just before the break but the hosts equalised through a Harry Agombar penalty on 63 minutes. This was awarded after Mark Taylor fouled Carlos in the box.

After the visitors went down to 10 on the hour mark, Carlos took over for Grays.

On 72 minutes he tucked home a rebound after Bossu saved well from ex-Harlow winger Luke Marshall.

Harlow went 3-1 behind on 80 minutes when Joe Sweeney crossed for an unmarked Carlos to tap home.

The scoring was wrapped up two minutes later when Sweeney crossed and Carlos controlled it before finishing.

Chapman lamented: "For 65 minutes we were the better side. It was disappointing. We are conceding a lot of second-half goals in games. It might be a loss of concentration."

The Grays line-up also included ex-Hawks central defender Ryan Kirby and midfielder Leon Lalite.

Two red cards shown in fiery Harlow victory

BRENTWOOD III 1, HARLOW 5 EAST MEN'S HOCKEY LEAGUE, DIV FOUR SE

TWO red cards were produced as Harlow's Craig Cholerton fired in a hat-trick to put Brentwood III to the sword in a fiery clash.

Harlow went ahead on the 20-minute mark from their sole penalty corner of Saturday's match.

The ball was fed to James Smith at the top of the 'D' who fired his shot low into the bottom right corner.

Harlow then dominated for 10 minutes as Smith completed a brace from a tight angle before Cholerton fired home.

Both teams were then reduced to 10 men temporarily.

A Brentwood forward was sin-binned after a rash challenge against Harlow right-back Martin Cox and Cholerton followed soon after for dissent.

After the break the same Brentwood forward was sent off after receiving a second yellow card followed by a red for a poor challenge on Smith.

Harlow exploited the numerical superiority.

Cholerton added his second after picking off a poor back pass and slotting home.

Brentwood then scored from a penalty corner before Harlow forward Adam Ottley was then sin-binned for dissent.

Cholerton completed his hat-trick by latching onto a through ball to apply a smart finish once more.

Ottley then became involved in a verbal exchange with a Brentwood defender and was sent off, much to the disbelief of his team-mates.

Harlow are fourth in the 12-team table.

HARLOW: Johnson, Castle, Plumridge, Cox, Grace, Krzoska, Smith(c), Cholerton, Light, Kirk, Ottley.

Ladies held by strugglers

HARLOW 1, CHELMSFORD III 1 ESSEX WOMEN'S HOCKEY LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

THEY had the edge but Harlow were forced to settle for a home draw against basement side Chelmsford III.

Sonya Amos, who had quit for France in the middle of last season, was back in the Harlow team on Saturday for a one-off game.

The hosts dominated, but did not break the deadlock until the half-hour mark. Good work from Petra Trimble preceded Charlotte Byers shooting home.

Shortly before the break, Harlow midfielder Emma Twedde was hit on the head by a ball but recovered to play on.

Chelmsford started strongly in the second half and soon levelled from a short corner.

The hosts came close to scoring through Byers and Twedde but a winner proved elusive.

HARLOW (squad): Rowley, Ferdinando, Shearnan, Turner, Chambers, Trimble, Thomas, Twedde, Spencer, Attack, Amos, Byers.

Leagues' tribute after tragedy

TEAMS from the Harlow & District Football League and the West Essex & East Herts Youth League held a one-minute silence prior to kick-off at all games on Sunday in memory of five members of the Shakoor family who died in a house fire in Barn Mead.

Among the teams paying tribute was the Princess Alexandra FC team, a side containing colleagues of Dr Abdul Shakoor, the father of the five children who died in the blaze and the only survivor.

This was before their League Cup home match against Mark Hall at Collins Meadow, off Harberts Road, which they lost 3-0.

Footage of the one-minute silence was shown on a BBC1 Look East news programme late on Sunday evening.

Match referee Laurie Mallyon told the Star: "We are all feeling for the family. I have grandchildren the same age as the youngest one. Everyone in Harlow is feeling this."

"All the Princess Alexandra players wore a black armband. I wore an armband as well."

"It was played in such a nice manner. It was a joy to referee. We can only send out our condolences to the rest of the family that their loved ones are gone. It was a sad occasion for everybody."

The minute silence was held at all 21 Harlow & District League games, as well as the youth league games in the

The Harlow & District League's management committee had announced last Wednesday that all matches would stage a minute silence as a mark of respect.

Dr Shakoor has now been discharged from Broomfield Hospital as police continue to investigate how the fire 10 days ago started.

Rams prop wants clinical edge

PROP Danny Stonehouse says the Rams must become more clinical if they are to fulfil their aim of a top-six spot this season, writes ALAN SCOTT.

Harlow picked up a bonus point for losing by less than seven points against South Woodham Ferrers.

They are certainly improving but have now lost all five league games this term.

Stonehouse said: "I thought it went well. We were good in the set-pieces and going forward. I think we are nearly there."

"We really have got to get a win next week [away to Upminster]. We just don't seem to be taking our opportunities in the last quarter of the pitch and the last 22. Our finishing needs to be more clinical really and that's what we are working on in training."

Second-placed Ferrers started the better and went ahead on 16 minutes when a series of quick passes led to a try near the left touchline scored by prop Neil Gilton. Fly half Jack Reeve missed the conversion.

Harlow were disallowed a try on 18 minutes when the ball was not grounded properly but play was brought back and fly half Michael Dobson kicked a penalty to make it 3-5.

The visitors scored their second try when Robert Mackie's pass near the halfway line was intercepted by Reeve who gleefully sprinted through and scored under the posts on 26 minutes.

Hawks' home help!

Ex-Eagle to soar in senior cup

HARLOW Town take on League One club Colchester United at the plush Weston Homes Community Stadium in the third round of the Essex Senior Cup on Tuesday. Ex-Crystal Palace striker Clinton Morrison, above, is set to play for the U's as he makes his long-awaited comeback from injury.

Hawks boss Danny Chapman said: "It is a great place to play at and they are a pro club and will be expected to win."

"When we played them last time we were 1-0 up but they scored two late goals to win."

Meanwhile, forward Fernando Manuel has left Harlow although the club still have his registration, which prevents him from playing for another Ryman League club. Chapman said: "He wanted more minutes. He only had one game for us and came up short in others."

BOSS Danny Chapman is demanding an improvement to Hawks' home league form as he seeks to drag his side up the Ryman League division one north table.

By DAVID RIMMER

In addition to being knocked out of three cup competitions at Barrows Farm this term, Harlow Town have only won one out of five league games at home this season.

They have a chance to improve on this dismal record when they host Romford this Saturday.

The home form is a major reason why Harlow lie 18th in the table.

Chapman, pictured inset, snapped: "We have only won one game at home this season and that is something that needs to be improved."

"If you are having a bad time like we have been doing, you need to win your home games."

He added: "I am looking for a reaction from last Saturday [a 4-1 defeat at Grays Athletic]. I want an improvement from what happened in the second half last Saturday. I am looking for the second win [at home]."

"In the last couple of home games we have played well, but we are coming up short in the second half of games at the moment. We are a work in progress and working a lot on our physical side at the moment."

Meanwhile, key central defender Danny Brown (knee injury) and right-back Donny Barnard (groin injury) are closing in on a first team return.

They came through training on Tuesday relatively unscathed.

Chapman said: "Danny had a bit of swelling up afterwards but that is normal >> Continued on page 90
